Circumstances in Death of Dog Wrong, Man Says

Al Sparago, an animal-lover from way back, was deeply grieved at the death of his nine-month old German Shepherd dog, Bataan, Jr., but advised the HERALD Tuesday that circumstances surrounding the canine's death in 100-plus degree heat Friday were contrary to those originally reported.

The Sparago dog succumbed from heat prostration Friday afternoon. A neighbor had noticed that Bataan, Jr., and the Sparagos' two other dogs had tangled their leashes in the back yard and were affected by the sun. He called the humane society, who saved two of the animals, but Bataan, Jr., a son of World War II hero dog, was dead when authorities arrived.

It was reported in Monday's HERALD that the Sparago dog died without benefit of water or shade in the yard.

arose, however, Sparago said. SEPT. 8, 1955

when the animals became entangled and couldn't reach the water or shade. He keeps his dogs leashed because both he and his wife work all day.

Al and wife live at 2278 W. 236th St., and have been in their new tract home for a month and a half. Neighbors reported they spent a good deal of time and money landscaping, fencing the yard, building shelters for their pets and making the dogs comfortable as possible.
